Conditions of Approval

- The vendor shall ensure that their terminals are produced in accordance to the samples that were submitted for the Type Approval. Any change in the terminal which may change the behaviour of the kernel with respect to qSPARC Specifications will have to be notified to RuPay Compliance Program and RuPay CP will review such changes and may direct the vendor for a new L2 Type Approval, if necessary.

- RuPay Compliance Program has approved the Product operating system uCOSII V2.81. Vendor shall assure compliance of terminal behaviour / functionality among the family of versions and provide to RuPay Compliance Program a detailed description of discrepancies between versions, if any. RuPay Compliance Program reserves the right to revoke the approval in case the discrepancies are found to be major.

- The approval granted by NPCI is subject to security compliance for solution. The vendor shall be solely responsible for the product. NPCI does not provide warranty on any product by vendor.
